12:24:40 From Liz Loeschner : We have had similar situations. I had a client once who had her husband guide her to and from group with his hand around the back of her neck. We had to do some education around what that behavior signals and she was shocked but it made so much sense for her to see that other people can notice it.

12:39:24 From Kathy : <https://www.giveherwings.com/>

12:39:27 From Loes Tam : So true Kathy... but it may depend how they view women...

12:39:46 From Kathy : Loes, you are so right!

12:43:47 From Zoom user : What can a woman do when children have turned against her and are her abusers?

12:45:17 From Loes Tam : Many church leaders may need training before they are really able to help women..but they may need to see the need for that training... some may recognise it... others may not...

12:46:28 From nicole S : Loes, you are right. If you are homeless, the first step is seeing your homeless.

12:46:52 From nicole S : Pastors need to see the need

12:53:56 From Loes Tam : So in the situation of the woman who defended herself against her second husband it is safe and even advisable to have marriage counselling?
