12:20:51 From Audrey Whitaker : QUESTION, is it better for the woman to be the first to file for divorce?

12:21:34 From Tina Lawson : In Pa I did finally end up filing TO $ PROTECT Myself & for a tough love wake up call...

I didn't push divorce for 1 whole year...The Pastor was the problem too!!!

12:21:37 From Rebecca noel : It's very difficult to divorce an abuser in Texas. I was told that my child will go to her dad in 2014. So we moved to another state while I was still married. Then after being a resident for a year , I got to file for divorce.

12:22:00 From Keri Drowatzky : I was just thinking about how a person in prison has a whole law library and Internet at their fingertips and can become lawyers. But a woman in an abusive situation not able to afford a lawyer may have limited resources to help herself. The criminal hast everything at the taxpayers expense. How unbalanced is this!

12:22:44 From Audrey Whitaker : Is this in all states? that filing freezes assets?

12:22:56 From Nicole Toyne : When I escaped, he had no job (forever) no income. I felt no guilt for what I endured. He abused me and his mom. He had to leave the house to be sold and moved into a shelter. I didn't file.

12:23:43 From Judy Croutch Beachy : Reacted to "I was just thinking ..." with 🙄

12:24:05 From Cheryl Bennett : QUESTION: My client filed in Ohio and a Mutual Restraining Order was issued. A few weeks later, the husband reduced her income and took her name off of financial accounts after the Mutual Restraining Order was issued. Does she have any legal recourse? Her Atty is insinuating that she doesn't.

12:24:18 From Tina Lawson : Yes also did get 2 legal consults As I still didn't want the divorce but AGAIN so much $ abuse !?!

Most abusers won't file as they see themselves as the victim!?!

12:24:18 From Rebecca noel : In home separation was a nightmare. Not good for the mother and children. Too confusing and dangerous for the kids.

12:24:22 From Joy Forrest : Replying to "It's very difficult ..."

I was very surprised that I could do that too, Joy. Iowa was really good to my daughter and I in my divorce. We had a judge who ruled on the child's behalf. What is best for the child. I was allowed to file a divorce from the state I lived in, not my ex's state he lived in. Thank God. My daughter was 14 and the judge let her decide who she wanted to live with.

12:29:22 From John : it sounds like the system has become a money maker for a select set of people.

12:31:12 From monica m, ral nc : Question? my dvpo said I had custody, clerk called and asked do I want to make it perm. I said yes, but afraid to face him. I didn't have to go to court. When I got paperwork, it did have an expy date and expired. When I started dating again, he threatened to kill us both, judge did not approve bc judge said he had moved out of state and threat was verbal, did not let me present. Even tho no longer dating, can I still follow thru on this dvpo, or must I file a new one when he threatens me again?

12:31:53 From Marjorie Lea : QUESTION- I have been told in Texas children can't be taken out of the state by one parent without the other parent's permission

I didn't have an official Advocate...asked MANY questions from an Attorney BEFORE I did it (left & then filed) afraid! It was when I started to see that God NEVER wanted that for me.

12:42:52 From Rebecca noel : Replying to "QUESTION- I have bee..."

In 2014, for some reason I was able to take my daughter to Iowa. I was still married to my husband then. I sought legal counsel before I did this. The lawyer said I can take my daughter to another state as long as there were no legal issues. He said to tell anyone who asked about us going to Iowa, just say my daughter and I are just visiting family. That was where my siblings lived. It worked for us. But that's most likely an unusual situation. Not a normal situation. Be sure to get legal counsel before you and your kids leave the state your abuser is in. Find out what the laws are in that state. Don't leave your state until you talk to legal aid or a lawyer. I got really good free counsel from a lawyer in Texas. Which is rare. Then my daughter and I left for Iowa. I got to divorce in Iowa in 2015. My ex was still in Texas then. It was a miracle that all of this worked for me. Again, it's rare to have this kind of situation work in a positive way.

- 12:58:31 From Julie : QUESTION: So, in mediation do the parents have greater flexibility in their custody set up than the standard court frameworks that are used. In TX, we now have expanded standard custody and it seems like that is happening for most. It depends on the judge and what you present in testimony.

12:59:53 From KAMILLA : If your QUESTION has not yet been answered, remember that the team will go back thru the chats and catch any unanswered questions before the replay is sent later this week.
